

Canadians Monarch Butterfly Enthusiasts working together to increase their population in our neighborhoods across Windsor, Essex and Chatham-Kent Counties. ON Canada

Hello Fellow Monarch Enthusiast!

This page is dedicated to you who are constantly dealing with the Facebook posts coming from Andy Davis articles and the Xerces Society web page, in case you haven't noticed these are the only ones against folks involved in home-rearing Monarchs and or against planting some non native milkweed.

Even though their continuously negative message will never affect the hearts and minds of the One Million + folks involved in home-rearing Monarchs, it may confuse some of the new people who's daily joins the socials and sees some of these negative and unsubstantiated claims.

It seems strange that even a few Canadian groups and organizations such as The David Suzuki Foundation and some Ontario Monarch conservationists Facebook groups are following their suggestions and pass them onto their members without doing any research or trying to get more information by any other scientific communities.

Since we started our local group in trying to bring back our Monarch butterflies to our area there have been many positive inputs by many experts and some scientists well respected among the scientific community.

As far as we can tell these two websites totally against home-rearing Monarchs, The Thoughtful Monarch and The Xerces Society are not treat to the One Million + Folks involved in raising Monarchs. Most people are smart enough to do their own researches before following for most of their nonsense articles like Oe and Tropical milkweed being the major cause of the Monarch declining fall migration. (Many other scientists do not agree with them).

Oe, according to most scientists is prevalent on Tropical m/w only in the south due to the warm climate, it's also found among the native species and most likely will be around for the years to come with no end in sight.

Chip Taylor from monarchwatch.org has been saying for years that the best way to fight Oe is to plant more milkweed instead of removing it. His articles are on the website blog section. <https://monarchwatch.org/blog>

Back in 2025 we did a Q&A through meta.ai, and here are some of the answers we've got:

For more information on how he calls "cultist" everyone one involved in rearing Monarchs watch this short YouTube movie posted by MrLundScience: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=5tACfwq3tXo>

This PDF page also shows you how people involved in home-rearing Monarchs are occasionally called: "crazy, dumb, and idiots" for not following his own "fake and cult" science. <http://www.savethemonarchbutterfly.ca/note-to-admins-1.pdf>

We are very proud of our past and present accomplishments, I challenge any scientist and their followers to shows us better proofs of their own accomplishments. :-)
