

A Simple Message to ALL North America Monarch Butterfly Lovers. :-)

In the last few years I've noticed that many folks who are rearing monarchs they find themselves overwhelmed with monarch eggs and or caterpillars during the breeding season, and sometimes even short of milkweed in order to feed their cats in a few Facebook groups that I'm also a member.

Having had the same experiences myself back in 2018 with too many eggs and small cats found in different milkweed plants around my garden and other fields, it made realize the importance of creating a local Facebook group that would get other people involved in planting more milkweed, creating more habitats, and raising monarchs also. So in January 2019 I did exactly that, as recommended by a Texan friend Craig Oveson AKA www.craigthebutterflyman.com After starting the group it sat at 300 members for awhile and then it kept on growing and now we're close to 3800 members

(most of them are from our City and Counties (Essex County -Chatham-Kent)

The beauty of having others in your community sharing the same passion, would allow you to share the load of eggs and cats when the numbers gets too high for you to handle.

We also share the common milkweed patches in our area with maps, etc... where anyone can harvest leaves to feed their cats. We've created an abundance of little milkweed plants supply by giving free milkweed seeds to some local nurseries which in turn makes them available for $ 2-3 each by late spring early summer to some of our members who struggles in growing their own, or have a need for more young plants to add to their gardens.

I would recommend that you will do the same in your own area to ultimately help the monarch butterflies, by creating a small local group to plant more habitats and encouraging them to raise a few each it would increase the yearly migration numbers to guarantee their survival.

Create your own local group and invite them to join the present facebook group you belong so they can learn quickly from other members, that way you don't have to teach every new person that joins you.

As you know there are hundreds of thousands of us all over North America caring for the monarch in different Facebook groups, if only half would follow these suggestions in my humble opinion the monarch population would rebound to where it used to be twenty years ago.

(This statement comes from a 75 years old retired house painter with an Italian accent) :-)
